MITCHELL ETESS

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

In his third year as CEO of the Connecticut Sun, Mitchell Grossinger Etess oversees team operations on behalf of the Mohegan Tribe, representing the ownership in all matters pertaining to the day-to-day functioning of the franchise on both the administrative and basketball sides of the organization.

Born into a family of hoteliers, Etess brings literally a lifetime of experience in the hospitality industry to the Mohegan Sun, where he was recently promoted from Executive Vice President of Marketing to President and Chief Executive Officer. Etess, who joined Mohegan Sun as a member of the casino's pre-opening team in 1996, now oversees the overall management and operation of the Northeast's premier entertainment destination.

Prior to his position at Mohegan Sun, he served as Vice President of Marketing at Players Island Resort-Casino-Spa in Nevada. From 1988 to 1994, Etess was employed at Trump Plaza Hotel & Casino in Atlantic City, rising through the ranks from Public Relations Manager to Senior Vice President of Marketing. Before that, Etess was a partner in the advertising and public relations firm of Gordon Etess Associates in Pinehurst, N.C., working there after serving as General Manager at CCA/Holly Inn in Pinehurst.

Before 1985, Etess worked in virtually every capacity at his family-owned Grossinger's Hotel in Grossinger, N.Y. It was here that Etess, raised at the hotel, received his early training in the hospitality industry.

A graduate of Columbia University, Etess resides in Old Lyme with his wife Karen, and their two basketball-playing daughters Piper and Maxie.

JEFFREY HARTMANN

CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER

In his third year as COO of the Connecticut Sun, Jeffrey E. Hartmann is responsible for overseeing the team's finance department, monitoring all aspects of team finances, and ensuring that all WNBA league financial reporting requirements are met.

Hartmann is also the Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer of Mohegan Sun, where he has been employed since December of 1996. In his new position, which he assumed last August, Hartmann oversees hotel operations, food and beverage, information technology, revenue management, the finance department, table games, slots and Race Book.

Prior to his August promotion, Hartmann was the Executive Vice President of Finance and Chief Financial Officer of Mohegan Sun, supervising day-to-day management of the accounting, financial reporting to the Securities Exchange Commission, and bondholder and bank relations. Hartmann has 14 years of experience in the casino and hotel industry. Prior to joining the Mohegan Tribal Gaming Authority, he served as Vice President of Finance at Foxwoods Management Company from August 1991 until December of 1996. A certified public accountant, Hartmann was employed by PricewaterhouseCoopers, LLP, as an Audit Manager, from 1984 to 1991.

He currently lives in Old Lyme, Connecticut with his wife Marisa and their four children.

PAUL MUNICK

PRESIDENT

In his third season as President of the Connecticut Sun, Paul Munick manages all aspects of the administrative and basketball operations for the franchise.

Munick is also the Senior Vice President of Sports and Entertainment for Mohegan Sun, overseeing all business operations for its three entertainment venues: the Mohegan Sun Arena, Cabaret Theatre and Wolf Den. He also supervises the property's Advertising and Public Relations departments. During his tenure, Munick has been instrumental in bringing world class sporting events to the Mohegan Sun Arena, including championship boxing, college and professional men's and women's basketball, Davis Cup tennis, professional bull riding and professional bowling. He has also secured world-renowned performers such as REM, Tim McGraw, James Taylor, Cher, David Bowie, Sheryl Crow, Shania Twain, Janet Jackson, Bon Jovi, Aerosmith and others to perform in Connecticut's premier entertainment venue.

Prior to joining Mohegan Sun, Munick served as vice president of athletics and entertainment at Madison Square Garden in New York City. In this role, he was involved in the development and expansion of all business initiatives, including contract negotiations, operations, marketing, sponsorship and television.

Munick was responsible for a wide variety of national events at Madison Square Garden, such as the Goodwill Games, NFL Draft, Millrose Track & Field Championships, Big East Championship and Women's Tennis Associations' Chase Championships (formerly the Virginia Slims Championships), where he served as tournament director. He also managed the Garden's family entertainment offerings and in 1995, re-established the professional boxing program.

Munick holds a master's degree in sports administration from Ohio University and a bachelor's degree in economics from Stony Brook University. A native New Yorker, he currently resides in Berkeley Heights, New Jersey with his wife and two children.

CHRIS SIENKO

GENERAL MANAGER

Beginning his third season as the General Manager of the Connecticut Sun, Chris Sienko has been instrumental in establishing the franchise as one of the most successful in the WNBA. Under his guidance, the Sun have been extremely aggressive in the offseason, building a team that came within one shot of a WNBA championship last October in Seattle.

In the span of 79 days during the winter of 2004, Sienko worked with coach Mike Thibault to engineer three trades that changed the face of the franchise. The biggest of those deals was a trade that sent four-time All-Star point guard Shannon Johnson and two picks (21st and 34th) to San Antonio for the Silver Stars' fourth, 16th and 29th picks in the 2004 WNBA Draft. The Sun used the fourth pick to select University of Minnesota star guard Lindsay Whalen. Sienko also acquired forward Asjha Jones from Washington in a three-way deal that involved Phoenix on March 25th, bringing the former UConn star back to Connecticut.

Sienko oversaw a hectic transition period that began when the Mohegan Tribe's purchase of the Orlando Miracle was officially announced on Jan. 28, 2003. In the 95 days between that announcement and the Sun's first preseason game against the New York Liberty, Sienko traded for Connecticut icon Rebecca Lobo, hired coach Mike Thibault and the rest of the Sun front office staff, helped negotiate the team's radio and television contracts and managed all of the many other day-to-day business functions of the franchise, including player contracts and personnel moves for the team. In addition to his role as GM for the Sun, Sienko was also directing all sporting events for the property, including boxing, wrestling, college and professional basketball, bowling, billiards and more.

Prior to joining Mohegan Sun, Sienko was an integral part in the start up of another professional sports team, the ABL's New England Blizzard, where he served as vice president of marketing, then general manager. He also was president of the Arthur Robert Group, a small advertising agency in Connecticut for eight years, before becoming vice president of marketing for thePit.com, which was successfully sold to Topps, Inc. in 2000.

Holding senior level positions with each of the organizations he has worked, his experience and guidance have brought in millions of dollars in revenues, new business and long-lasting partnerships.

A graduate of the University of Connecticut, Sienko lives in Newington, Connecticut with his family.

Entering his third season with the Connecticut Sun, Mike Thibault has firmly established himself as one of the top coaches in the WNBA.

Leading a team that was a near-unanimous pick to finish last before the start of the 2004 season, Thibault guided the Sun to a first-place finish in the Eastern Conference during the regular season. The Sun went onto defeat Washington and New York on the way to the first Eastern Conference Championship in franchise history, and came within one shot of a WNBA Championship before eventually falling to the Seattle Storm in the Finals.

Connecticut's accomplishments in 2004 were particularly impressive considering Thibault rebuilt the team following a 2003 run to the Eastern Conference Finals. Concluding the Sun needed to get younger and more athletic, Thibault risked taking a temporary step back to get better. He carried five rookies on the 2004 roster, lowering the average age of his team from 28.4 to 24.2. Among those rookies was point guard Lindsay Whalen, who averaged more than 30 minutes per game running the team.

The Sun also flourished despite losing starting forward Brooke Wyckoff to a season-ending knee injury on May 3rd. Wyckoff and the five other veterans who did not return to the team averaged a combined 30 points, 13.5 rebounds and 7.6 assists per game in 2003.

Last season, Connecticut set single-season franchise records for total assists (572), assist average per game (16.8) and 20-assist games (nine). The Sun also set a franchise record with six straight wins from June 20th to July 6th, and the team reeled off eight straight Eastern Conference victories at one point. Four of those eight conference wins were on the road. In two years under Thibault, the Sun have never lost more than three games in a row.

In his rookie season as a WNBA head coach – following a four-year stint with the Milwaukee Bucks – Thibault led the Connecticut Sun to the first playoff series victory in franchise history, a 2-0 sweep of the Charlotte Sting in August of 2003. Although Connecticut would succumb to the eventual WNBA champion Detroit Shock in the Eastern Conference Finals, Thibault guided the team to what was then the best season in the history of the franchise.

Hired by the Sun on March 7, 2003, Thibault owns an impressive coaching resume that extends well beyond his tenure with the Milwaukee Bucks.

Thibault entered the NBA ranks in 1978 as a scout for the Los Angeles Lakers, and was promoted to director of scouting and assistant coach in 1980. The Lakers won two World Championships (1980, 1982) during his tenure. From 1982-1986, he was an assistant coach and director of scouting for the Chicago Bulls during a period when the franchise drafted Michael Jordan and Charles Oakley while also acquiring John Paxson.

From 1988-89, Thibault was the general manager and head coach of the Calgary 88's of the World Basketball League (WBL), earning WBL Coach of the Year honors in 1988.

In 1989, Thibault began a remarkable eight-year run as general manager and head coach of CBA's Omaha Racers. The Racers made the playoffs each season (1989-97) under his watch, bringing home a CBA title in 1993, and a return to the finals in 1994. Thibault was named 1993 Sportsman of the Year by the Omaha sportscasters, and ranks sixth on the CBA all-time coaching victory list (236).

In March of 1995, he coached the silver medal winning USA National Team at the Pan American Games, and in August of 1993, he served as head coach of the gold medal-winning USA National Team at the World Championship Qualifying Tournament in Puerto Rico.

He spent the 1997-98 season as a scout for the Seattle Sonics.

Mike and his wife Nanci have two children, Eric and Carly.

What they're saying about Mike Thibault

Jerry West, Hall of Fame player and Memphis Grizzlies President of Basketball Operations
"Mike is a basketball junkie. He started at the lowest level of the game and progressed to the point where he has become a successful coach. No one is ever going to outwork Mike, nor will they have the dedication to improve his team like he does."

Ann Meyers, Hall of Fame player and television analyst
"He obviously knows the game very well. The thing that impresses me is how well he scouts teams. That goes back to his old days as an NBA assistant. He's obviously done a tremendous job stepping into his first year in Connecticut."

Deb Patterson, head coach, Kansas State women's basketball team
"Mike's expertise in the game of basketball is extraordinary. He brings great credibility to the WNBA, and the future of that league. I think Mike is one of the most aggressive and hardest working WNBA coaches, period, in his approach to evaluating, scouting and identifying collegiate talent. There's no question in my mind that Mike is a coach who can develop and maximize young talent. I can't think of a better situation for a young professional player to be in than to play for Mike."

Jim Tooley, Executive Director, USA Basketball
"Mike is a very passionate person about the sport of basketball, and he loves to coach. When he was coaching our teams, he was very prepared, and took coaching for the United States very seriously. He's a team player in that he works with management well, works with players well, works with assistant coaches well. Mike, in my opinion, understands that there are other perspectives out there, and while he may not always agree with them, he understands they are part of the equation. I think that's why I've always enjoyed working with Mike. He has that broader view."

Terry Stotts, assistant coach, Golden State Warriors
"Mike is one of the best coaches I've known over the years, having coached against him in the CBA, and with him in the NBA. He's a very talented tactician and works well with players. Players enjoy playing for him, and he's been a winner everywhere he's been."

Jim O'Brien, head coach, Philadelphia 76ers
"Mike Thibault is an outstanding student of the game. A consummate professional; thorough in his preparation, an excellent teacher and communicator, a great X and O guy and, most importantly, a leader. New England and the Sun should be proud that he is here."

Tom Crean, head coach, Marquette University men's basketball team
"My time of living in Milwaukee as the head coach at Marquette has been filled with a lot of great moments, but none more important than developing a friendship with Mike Thibault. He is by far one of the best friends I could ever imagine having, but as important as that friendship is, his ability to coach, teach and motivate people is second to none. I've gained so much knowledge and experience from watching what he's gone through. I love the fact that he accepts nothing less than the best effort from those around him, including a friend like me."

Team Notes:

- Before the start of the 2003 season, the Orlando Miracle relocated to Connecticut, where it began play as the Connecticut Sun.
- On May 24, 2003, the Sun opened the season at their new home, the Sun Arena, in Uncasville, CT. The Sun lost the game, 82-73, to the defending champion Los Angeles Sparks in front of a sellout crowd.
- With Debbie Black and Shannon Johnson in the backcourt, the Sun became just the third team in league history to have two guards with more than 500 career assists.
- For the second straight year, Sun players Shannon Johnson and Nykesha Sales represent the team in the WNBA All-Star Game. For Sales, it is her fifth-straight appearance in the All-Star Game.
- With a two-game sweep over the Charlotte Sting in the Eastern Conference Semifinals, the Sun advance to the Eastern Conference Finals for the first time in franchise history.

HISTORY OF THE WNBA

On April 24, 1996, women's basketball announced "We Got Next" as the NBA Board of Governors approved the concept of a Women's National Basketball Association (WNBA) to begin play in June 1997.

Val Ackerman

Since that day in 1996 there have been many firsts for the WNBA: Val Ackerman – the first president of the WNBA; Sheryl Swoopes – the first player signed to the WNBA; Cynthia Cooper – the league's first Most Valuable Player; the Houston Comets – the first WNBA Champions; Lisa Leslie – the first WNBA player to dunk.

However, the very first for the league was a "to-do list." With less than 15 months to tipoff, a league of its own began to unfold for the WNBA as each task was completed. The history of the WNBA follows:

Sheryl Swoopes

On the Air . . .

Before a player was signed or a staff member was in place, the league announced its broadcast partnerships with NBC, ESPN and Lifetime Television. It was decided that the WNBA season would be played in the summer when the sports calendar was less crowded and the games could be televised live. During a successful inaugural season, more than 50 million viewers watched WNBA games on the three networks.

Cynthia Cooper

ESPN2 joined NBC and ESPN to televise WNBA games beginning in 2001 and carried live coverage of the WNBA Draft. Lifetime, which had carried games during the first four seasons, continued as a partner through 2002, presenting Players' Journal, a weekly half-hour magazine show highlighting the on and off-court lives of the league's players and coaches.

Lisa Leslie

Oxygen Media signed on to televise WNBA games in 2002, and ABC Sports became a new partner through a six-year agreement that extended the WNBA's national television coverage through 2008. Telemundo, the fastest growing

Spanish language television network in the U.S., and NBA TV, the league's 24-hour television network, also joined ABC, ESPN, ESPN2 and Oxygen in carrying WNBA games beginning with the 2003 season.

WNBA games and programming reached the largest global audience since the league's inception in 2004, with WNBA content broadcast to 188 countries in 30 languages. The league delivers an audience unique in sports. In-arena, gender breakdown is approximately 80-20 female-male. The TV audience is about 50-50 female-male, with a strong percentage of non-adult viewers.

The 2004 season opened with a bang when University of Connecticut star Diana Taurasi started her much anticipated professional basketball career with the Phoenix Mercury. ABC's first televised game of the season was Phoenix at the Connecticut Sun. The telecast was the highest rated WNBA game (regular season or playoffs) ever on ABC.

The Players and the Teams. . .

The first of the player signings was announced on October 23, 1996, with Sheryl Swoopes and Rebecca Lobo joining the league. The duo was soon followed by Lisa Leslie, Ruthie Bolton, Cynthia Cooper and Michele Timms – the first international player.

Eight teams were announced for the league's inaugural season. The Eastern Conference consisted of the Charlotte Sting, Cleveland Rockers, Houston Comets and New York Liberty while the Western Conference was comprised of the Los Angeles Sparks, Phoenix Mercury, Sacramento Monarchs and Utah Starzz.

On April 29, 1999, the WNBA and the Women's National Basketball Players Association (WNBPA) announced the league's first Collective Bargaining Agreement – a first of its kind in women's team sports.

By 2000, the league had expanded to 16 teams, with the Detroit Shock and Washington Mystics joining the league in 1998, the Minnesota Lynx and Orlando Miracle in 1999, and the Indiana Fever, Miami Sol, Portland Fire and Seattle Storm in 2000.

The 2002 season saw 176 women play professional basketball in 256 regular-season WNBA games (schedule history: 34 games in 2003; 32 games from 1999-2002; 30 in 1998; 28 in 1997). Continuing to showcase talented stars from around the world, the league featured 45 players from 22 countries.

In October 2002, the NBA Board of Governors voted to restructure the WNBA to allow individual team ownership, and to allow teams to be owned by non-NBA owners and located in non-NBA markets. Orlando, Miami, Portland and Utah elected not to assume ownership of their teams, and in December, the WNBA announced the relocation of the Utah Starzz to San Antonio, which had previously been awarded a WNBA franchise. The team would be named the Silver Stars.

On January 28, 2003, the Connecticut Sun were awarded the Orlando Miracle and became the newest WNBA franchise, with the Mohegan Tribe of Indians becoming the first non-NBA owner in league history.

On April 25, 2003, the WNBA and the WNBAPA signed its second Collective Bargaining Agreement which gave WNBA players the first free agency rights in women's professional team sports.

On September 19, 2003, the Cleveland Cavaliers/Gund Arena Company announced that they would no longer operate the Cleveland Rockers.

The WNBA Draft . . .

The Comets selected Tina Thompson, the Pac-10 Conference's leading scorer, with the first pick of the inaugural WNBA Draft. Margo Dydek, a 7-2 center from Poland, was selected first in the 1998 Draft by the Starzz, and two-time Associated Press Women's Basketball Player of the Year Chamique Holdsclaw was the Washington Mystics' No. 1 selection in the 1999 Draft. In 2000, the Cleveland Rockers selected Ann Wauters from Belgium as the 1st overall pick, and Australian Olympian Lauren Jackson went to the Seattle Storm with the No. 1 selection in 2001. In 2002, National Player of the Year Sue Bird was selected by Seattle, who had the top pick for the second consecutive year by virtue of the WNBA's first Draft Lottery, held in New York on November 13, 2001. The Cleveland Rockers made Latoya Thomas of Mississippi State the No. 1 selection in the 2003 WNBA Draft held Friday, April 25, 2003. The 2004 first overall pick has come to be known as the worst kept secret in the history of the WNBA Draft when the Phoenix Mercury selected University of Connecticut star and three-time NCAA Champion Diana Taurasi.

The Logos and the Uniforms . . .

With players and teams in place, the league began its next task of creating logos and uniforms. The red, white and blue official WNBA logo – "Logo Woman" – was selected from approximately 50 design options. After developing an extensive list of choices, the team names were selected by the league and teams based on factors including: a tie to the NBA team name in that market, a link to a key characteristic of the city or state and/or the creation of a name fitting the current sports landscape. The uniforms also underwent several design changes, and on May 21, 1997, the WNBA unveiled the team uniforms.

On May 1, 2003, the WNBA and Reebok unveiled new uniform designs which were created to maximize performance and provide optimal comfort for the players. The jerseys are tapered to fit a woman's body and are designed to be worn untucked, providing free range of motion for the players. The new uniforms features flat-back mesh material that incorporates Play Dry™ technology – Reebok's moisture management system that helps keep the athlete cooler, drier and more comfortable by using temperature and humidity-regulating properties in the fabric.

The WNBA and Reebok also unveiled a new style in the WNBA Footwear Collection by Reebok – the WNBA Isolation – at the beginning of the 2003 season. This shoe features the WNBA logo on the heel, tongue, sole and sock liner.

It's a Ball Game . . .

The start of the 2004 season brought some changes in the WNBA rules with the three-point line moving from 19-feet, nine inches to the international length of 20-feet, 6 1/2 -inches, and the lane widening from 12-feet to the NBA width of 16-feet. The WNBA game also consists of a 30-second clock, two 20-minute halves, eleven-player rosters and a collegiate-regulation size ball. The WNBA's signature orange-and-oatmeal basketball by Spalding is 28.5 inches in circumference and one inch smaller than the NBA's regulation ball. In January 2003, Spalding Sports Worldwide and the WNBA announced the Spalding WNBA Infusion basketball, featuring a built-in, dual action Micro Pump®, as the new official game ball of the league.

Millions of Fans Join In . . .

The inaugural WNBA season tipped off on June 21, 1997, with the New York Liberty taking on the Los Angeles Sparks at the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, Calif. A crowd of 14,284 watched as Sparks guard Penny Toler scored the first basket in WNBA history. The Liberty defeated the Sparks 67-57. Then on August 22, the WNBA league attendance surpassed the 1 million mark at America West Arena in Phoenix. In 2001, the WNBA welcomed its 10 millionth fan on September 1 at the STAPLES Center in Los Angeles. In 2002, more than 2.5 million fans attended WNBA games, as regular-season attendance averaged more than 9,000 fans for the sixth straight season. In 2004, the WNBA season attendance topped the 2 million mark for the sixth consecutive year.

In the Community . . .

Off the court the WNBA continues to position its players as positive role models for all of its fans - male and female, young and old. The League and its teams created and implemented programs which emphasized healthy lifestyles, positive self-image, breast health awareness, reading and youth basketball programs.

Breast Cancer Survivors

The WNBA's new Be Smart - Be Fit - Be Yourself program will continue to focus on providing a program that teaches the positive benefits of exercise, good nutrition and a positive attitude. 2005 marks the third year that the WNBA and The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation join forces as the League continues its leadership role in raising awareness and funds for breast health awareness. Since its inception, the League has raised over $2 million to aid in the fight against breast cancer. The WNBA also remains committed to the Read to Achieve initiative. Throughout the year players, coaches and staff played the role of storyteller as they hosted tens of thousands of fans at reading time-outs in all 13 team markets. In addition, teams continue to host book drives and unveil team branded reading corners at schools, libraries and other community based organizations. Finally, in its fourth successful year, the Jr. NBA/Jr. WNBA is a network of recreational youth basketball leagues that provide access to a variety of membership programs and instructional materials for players, parents, coaches and officials. The instructional materials include guidelines for skill development, sportsmanship and physical fitness.

League Showcases All-Stars . . .

On July 14, 1999, the league held the Inaugural WNBA All-Star Game at Madison Square Garden in New York City, which was televised live on ESPN. The capacity crowd of 18,649 witnessed the incredible athleticism, teamwork, fan involvement and in-arena excitement that is unique to the WNBA. The Western Conference All-Stars – led by the game's Most Valuable Player and Los Angeles Sparks center Lisa Leslie – defeated the Eastern Conference 79-61.

The Game at Radio City

In 2003, the WNBA All-Star Game marked its fifth anniversary with a return to Madison Square Garden on July 12. The event made its network television debut on ABC. The West All-Stars won the event for the fifth straight year by beating the East All-Stars 84-75 in front of 18,610 fans, with Nikki Teasley of the Los Angeles Sparks taking home the MVP honors.

2004 Olympic Women's Basketbal Team

After the league's decision to break for the month of August to allow Olympic team members to represent the U.S., the concept for WNBA All-Stars vs. USA Basketball: The Game at Radio City was born. Serving as an Olympic Team send-off, the game – played in front of a sell-out crowd – made history as the first basketball game played in the historic venue.

The program will roll out over several months starting in Spring 2005 and will serve as a year-long "call to action" for teens and women to make a commitment to being fit and healthy. The official tip-off of the program will correspond with the start of the 2005 season. The content of the program will be communicated and delivered through vehicles including a Fitness Journal, 'Team' of Spokespeople and National and Local Events and Promotion.

Komen Breast Cancer Foundation. In 2004, the WNBA and its teams raised nearly $200,000 to benefit the Komen Foundation. The highlights of the partnership are a pair of online auctions, held in July and October where fans have the opportunity to log on to bid on their favorite WNBA and NBA items.
